Below are pictures of faced Boulder opals. We have very inexpensive from as little as $40 through to $4,000. The beautiful thing about these stones is that you can see exactly what you are getting for your money. If you buy Boulder in big chunks where you can only see a little bit on the edge the miners always charge you more thinking that as you open up the Boulder there will be more colour inside and of course 95% of the time they are right. So you can't blame them with fuel as high as it is today, they just have to get every last dollar out of every opal they find and its up to us to support them. Yes, both you and I because if we don't they won't be there when we are looking to buy more opal.

There are some fantastic stones in this lot for a carver or indeed just a cutter. I can highly recommend the $44 stone from one angle the reds are just brilliant and there is a chance that the colour goes right under that very dark brown ironstone.

I love the .412oz for $600 that stone is approximately 42mm x 17mm and is quite thick, you'll need to slice some off the back of that one.

The 3 stones in the .649oz for only $600 the lot really appears to me as an error, they probably should be $600 each but this is a special. You're our valued client and if you want those 3 stones you can have them for only $600.

There is a super gem pair of splits .194oz for only $800 the pair, a good cutter will cut those into a matching pair of earrings, the lady who wears them will be stopped in her tracks.

There is a parcel of 130cts for only $2,600 with 10 stones in it, beautiful greens and blues. The smallest stone has super gem reds and for an average of $260 each these are an absolute bargain.

Now I could go on and on but I am in a hurry. I can't leave without talking about the 4 faced boulder opals .865oz or $134cts, these are only $15 each, that is $60 for the parcel, grab that one.

I am not even going to mention the $4,000 stone. My wife has a pair of earrings from this material and every time she wears them she is stopped in her tracks. This stone should be cut into two stones. The first is a rectangular 25mm x 12.5mm, the other a freeform approximately 20mm x 15mm. That's a fair description for something I wasn't going to talk about.

Please take your time and enjoy our very special Boulder Offer.

If you would like to hear about my last trip to Coober Pedy (I came back yesterday) email me and I'll send you a story from the field.

Regards

Murray
