Subject: Chrysoprase Hearts, Beads OFFER 23 Feb 2010

Hi folk

For those of you who love carved hearts we have just had some cut in Chrysoprase. Marion, one of our most loyal and loved customers in the US, has asked for some hearts to be cut with the drill hole on the front/side, so we have had a few cut this way in Chrysoprase. I am sure Marion will be excited to hear how many other clients want some too. These are very inexpensive and very very sweet. We have lots more in stock which we haven't had time to take photos of yet, so we have plenty to go around.

To tell you a tiny bit about our Chrysoprase, sometimes called South Pacific Jade. It is usually apple green, sometimes translucent, is a semi precious gemstone and is the Gemini Birthstone.

Some say back in the 18th century thieves would keep the stone in their mouth to make them invisible (not too sure if that works, pretty sure it wouldn't) whilst others say it helps encourage hope and joy, clarify problems and can be used as a cure for restlessness and protection on sea voyages. It is also said that Chrysoprase speeds healing if kept close to your bed at night and is more powerful if carved in the shape of a heart. We at Australian Opal Mines don't claim Chrysoprase can do such things but just love to look at the beauty of Chrysoprase when carved into hearts.

If you are wondering what type of glue could be used for the top drilled hearts we recommend UHU quick set which is a 5 minute glue or even better UHU Plus used in conjunction with a heat lamp for almost steel like setting. UHU is the industry standard.

We look forward to hearing back from you with your orders.

All the best.

Regards

Heather
