Folk

We are noticing that many of you are buying loose beads so today we have put some loose beads together starting from the very inexpensive Lightning Ridge freeforms which are pretty with their pastel colours with the sandstone mixed with the potch. Last time we offered material like this the Lightning Ridge pairs for only $25 were snapped up by a number of you.

The pair that I like the best and that really includes the Lambinas at up to $314 are the Mintubi Black freeform beads 2.33cts only $233 for the pair. Now they are a little bit different in size but your ears might be too and your ears are separated quite a way from one another they are a beautiful pair of black beads for very small money.

If you are looking for something else of value look at the 125cts of natural Andamooka material for only $187 there is one beautiful blue bead in that and are drilled. The larger beads would look good mixed with rounds or rondels.

There is another packet of half drilled beads 95.9cts for only $125. There are some beautiful stones in there cut from old material and if we had to replace it today we couldn't do it at even double the price.

Something you should pay attention to and you could easily miss are the loose chip beads, these go in between rounds or freeforms and give a lot of life to the strand.

There is a magnificent Lambina bead here, big amber gem bar bead only $295 but my pick of the lot is a small Andamooka super gem freeform/more of a rectangular 10mm x 7mm 2.1cts for only $295, that is a very very nice stone and worthy of the neck of a princess. If you have a princess in your family or a princess of a girlfriend this is your stone.

Regards

PS if you look at the bottom you will see some beads we have made up including some chip beads, we have used some darker stones with these very bright chip pieces and as you can see they are just fantastic and give the whole thing a lift.
