Subject: Inexpensive Opal OFFER 16 July 2010

Hi folk

Today we have mostly inexpensive opal but still really good value. I particularly like the Mintubi Dark Base greens for only $95. Every stone will cut a stone and it numbers into the high teens.

Also as a stand out is the Lambina Blues .65oz $250/oz only $162, that is really really nice material. Some of it could be faceted, it doesn't have to be faceted it stands up by itself.

The three Mintubi stones on Sandstone 2.9oz for only $72.50 is a stand out.

I think the gem shell specimen for $250 is great for a collector you are looking at $1,500/oz colour in those little shells. You were lucky that when it was mined the miner had the brains to leave it as a specimen and not break it up.

The $104 Coober Pedy green blue $1,000/oz material is a beauty, that will make a nice pendant.

Another one that is going to be a turn on for you is the shell for only $50, I don't say it's full colour but by gee there is a lot of colour in there. You cut that patch off the top and you are going to get probably a $150 stone out of it.

For those of you who are beginners who want to have some big things to cut the 21.5oz Coober Pedy for only $10/oz is great. There are very large stones and you will get some huge results.

The Lambina small gems $900/oz is brilliant only $270, I see there are 10 stones each will cut a stone, you are only talking $27 per stone, some of the stones are worth up to $100/ct.

So there are some beautiful things there for you this week.

We look forward to hearing from you.

Regards

Murray
