Subject: Andamooka Opal Spheres "Opal Ladies" OFFER 2 Jun 2010

Hi folk

Unless you have seen these Andamooka Opal Lady Spheres from us I don't think you will have seen them anywhere. There are a number here and they are very very reasonably priced. There is nothing more than $75. Check our website to read more about Painted Ladies.

These rocks, and I don't know the real name of them have little cracks running through them and when the opal was a liquid the cracks filled up with opal. The opal in these stones are criss crossing in all directions, they weren't suitable for being faced off or split as Painted Ladies so we have used our imagination and cut spheres out of them. Now if any of you are marble collectors, they would go well in your marble collection, they would be the biggest tom bowlers (marbles) you have ever seen, they are unique and well worthy of a collection. You will have something very few people will have.

I recommend the pair 4cm round Opal Ladies only $150 for the pair. They are beautifully cut, unique and well worthy of being in your collection.

If you have a dremel the 6mm round for only $70 could be faced off, you could dremel into the rock and have one hell of a stone at one end. That opal goes right through, you just have to cut it out, it would be a very interesting exercise. To the person who buys this - I would love to have a photo of it when it is finished.

All the best.

Regards

Murray
