Subject: Some of Australia's Top Rough Opal - OFFER 30 Mar 2010

Hi folk

One of my friends thinks I am only sending you offers of "rubbish" opal. I know the word he used but it was a bit rough of me to put that the other day so I do apologise. Just to let you see a few of our stones which never see the light of day other than when I'm drooling over them, sometimes I have some special buyers whom I show them to you, enjoy the pictures.

The $100,000/oz Mintubi Super Gem 2oz stone is very very hard to photograph. Our old camera took this super family and it is on the bottom of the Mintubi Super Gems on our Home Page, that camera showed up the reds really well. Our new camera is not picking up the reds anywhere near as well. But believe me that this is a super gem and I doubt anyone other than the miner who mined this owns a stone. We send you a number of pictures, the first was taken some time ago with our old camera, the others were just taken this week. We can highly recommend this stone, if it is not kept as a collector's item, a matching ring pendant bracelet earrings or whatever you want can be cut from this 2oz stone. You can see the size of it from the picture in Heather's hand.

If there is a stone here you think you can't live without we would be happy to hear from you. We would even accept a payment plan.

Regards

Murray
